

If you require dialysis, Queens-Long Island Renal Institute means a better quality of life

Queens' and Long Island's newest dialysis center assures patients of the finest quality of care, state-of-the-art technology and uncompromised dignity, in a bright, ultra-modern and comfortable setting.

Located on the lobby level of the renowned Parker Jewish Institute for Health Care and Rehabilitation, in New Hyde Park, Queens-Long Island Renal Institute (QLIRI) is easy to reach from all New York City communities and central to the communities of Queens and Nassau Counties.

QLIRI is licensed by the New York State Department of Health, and is staffed by a dedicated, interdisciplinary team of board-certified nephrologists, certified dialysis registered nurses, a renal social worker, and a registered renal dietitian. QLIRI's staff possesses the expertise and experience to meet the individual needs of patients and families.

Michael N. Rosenblut, President and CEO of Parker, notes that QLIRI was conceived and built with one thing in mind: "Improving the quality of life for adults who require dialysis, whether they live in their own homes or are residents or patients of Parker. We endeavored to make the treatment stations and overall environment as comfortable and pleasing as possible," he said.

To accomplish this, the design team of Tobin Parnes Design Enterprises used a nature-inspired theme. The floor looks like a path in the park. Cloud artwork adorns a dropped ceiling, which mirrors the curves of the path, and wall graphics display full-height trees. "The aesthetics of QLIRI are unique," notes Dr. Simon Prince, Medical Director at QLIRI. "Other dialysis units around do not compare."

QLIRI Reception Area

Besides the soothing atmosphere, QLIRI's state-of-the-art, private treatment stations are equipped with very comfortable chairs and all the latest amenities, such as personal TVs and DVDs, and free wireless access. All patients have access to social work services, nutrition counseling, and individual as well as family health education. Valet parking and medical transportation are available.
